

CASE STUDY

Google Map Management

Myriad Core organized dozens of practices' Google listings when a regional health network acquired a five hundred bed hospital. Because of this work, thousands of patients were able to view the correct location, contact, and business hours information, without interruption or being directed to wrong place, during the transition.

The network now has access to all of its locations' Google listings in once central library. The library's management can be delegated at the pleasure of the network.

